

AbstractMULTIPLE FLOW RENDERING USING DYNAMIC CONTENT

5 A print run data comprises a first document data, said first document data having at least one unassigned copy hole, said first document data being written in a page description language; and a second document data, said second document data being sized so as to fit into said unassigned copy hole, said second document data being written in a document description language.

10

Fig. 9